[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Women's Temperance Crusade in the West.

CINCINNATI Feb 20—The temperance crusade in Ohio continues. At Xenia five saloons were closed to-day. At Oxford about all have closed. The work has been begun in Dayton but accounts differ as to the result.

COLUMBUS O, Feb 21—The women's prayer meeting this morning notwithstanding the rain was very large and much interest was manifested. A special request was made for prayer by Christian people everywhere that their efforts may be crowned with success, and that they be given wisdom to conduct the campaign that is to be opened next week.

NEW YORK Feb 20—It is said that [illegible] women in this city have offered their services since last Sunday to the conductors of the Union Temperance Prayer Meetings to make a rush upon the war against King Alcohol. The Brooklyn Women's Temperance Society has resolved in public meetings to devise some means to prevent liquor selling on Sundays. A large number favor adopting the Western plan.

A praying crusade against the saloons will begin to-morrow in this city. The war began yesterday at Alderman Borouck's place, the women taking advantage of the absence of the proprietor to pray in his saloon. The women of Orange N J begin to-day.

Henry Ward Beecher on the Temperance Agitation.

NEW YORK Feb 21—Henry Ward Beecher had a large congregation last night. He said that history would not show a parallel to the effort now making in the West to suppress dram drinking, which he characterized as a scourge of the household. It is an evil, he said, which has defied legislation but now under the providence of God there has arisen a moral cyclone—a perfect tempest of influence.

The Emma Mine—A Little Light in a Very Dark Place.

NEW YORK Feb 21—Experienced Utah miners in this city say the alleged failure of the Little Emma mine was only a trick to freeze out British stockholders. It is alleged that the working of the mine was not stopped because it had ceased to pay but to mislead distant stockholders. The managers suspended operations subsequently guarding the mine from intruders in order to conceal the real state of affairs. The Sun says: At the time of the stoppage over $300 000 worth of first class ore lay on the dump. Some months ago it was reported to parties here that operations in the mine had been resumed and shipments of newly mined ore averaged eight car loads daily. We have seen letters from A. Majors to a friend in New York, dated Salt Lake City, Feb 1st, in which he says: The Emma is yielding ore which assays by the car load, $800 per ton and from all I can hear they seem to have a very fine vein at the lower level.

Rumored Changes in Foreign Missions.

NEW YORK, Feb 21—A Washington dispatch says there are rumors in that city that Schenck will retire from the English mission at his own request and will be succeeded by Secretary Fish. Bancroft is also said to have expressed a desire to retire from Berlin, and it is said that Rev Mr. Thomp[son] now in that city is urged upon the President as his successor.

Arrest of a New York Desperado.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—John Conroy, a well known thief and member of the Tenth Avenue gang, was [disc]overed in a back room in the rear of a tenement house on West Thirtieth street last evening and [arre]sted with a female companion by the police head[qu]arters. The police decline to say whether Conroy is believed to be the murderer of Schmeich the Hudson river railroad watchman or merely an accessory.

WORCESTER, Mass. Feb 20.—The estates of Stephen Abbey and Kelly Forster, Sarah Wall and Marietta Flagg who refuse to pay taxes until women can vote were offered for sale by the tax collector to-day to pay the taxes for 1872. The last named was bought in by a friend but no one bid for the others.

NEW YORK, Feb 21—A dispatch from Baltimore announces the death in Galveston of ex-Senator Wigfall of Texas.

Labor Strikes.

PHILADELPHIA February 20—The striking cotton and woolen mill operatives held a meeting to-night and resolved to adhere to their demands. Manufacturers state that the hands have only injured themselves by this action as most of the mills have now on hand large stocks of manufactured goods, and were running under the least possible expense in order to give employment to the hands.

The striking ship carpenters at Cooper's Point and Camden resumed work to-day having obtained the increase of pay demanded.

Six hundred workmen of the extra Spanish war [ves]sels will be discharged from the navy yard to-morrow. The Canonicus will go into commission to-morrow. Her destination is supposed to be Key West.

Twelve mills and about two thousand operatives in Kensington, Penn. are idle owing to a strike for an advance of fifteen per cent. over the present rate of wages.

WASHINGTON CITY.

President Grant's Taciturnity Relaxes

WASHINGTON, Feb 21—President Grant was interviewed yesterday on Indian affairs. He made great complaint of the manner in which the Indian policy of the administration has been treated by newspapers. He said there was apparently a concerted effort to misrepresent and pervert the results of the policy, a determination not to give credit for good accomplished and to hold the administration responsible for abuses and frauds which are the outgrowth of the old system. Under the old system it was impossible for any portion of the Indian appropriation to reach the Indians themselves. Under the new administration of Indian affairs by far the largest part of goods and annuities went to the Indians directly, and the talk about corruption and statements about outrages proceed largely from men whose profits and whose opportunities for swindling Indians have been cut off. Under the former system Indian plunderers were so powerful that an honest man could not remain in office. This has been thoroughly reformed and the dishonest agent is now the exception where formerly he was the rule. With all our efforts some have succeeded in circumventing and cheating the Government but as fast as discovered they are broken up and cast out. He expressed himself positively against any control of Indian affairs by the army except in punishing refractory tribes who refuse to accept the Government's proffer of kind treatment for good behavior. He is highly pleased with the results obtained by religious agents who he says worked well there being in addition to the usual official responsibility of individual responsibility that of the religious society making the nomination. He cited the case of Indian Commissioner Smith as one of peculiar hardship and injustice. Newspapers had for months abused him without measure and when he was vindicated [illegible] perfect silence and ignored the facts while Smith [illegible] driven insane by the attacks [illegible] The President thought there should be a new statute for the punishment of lying.

THE PALOUSE COUNTRY

PALOUSE Whitman County W T February 9 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having promised to give a better description of the soil climate &c of this region, I will endeavor to do so at this time as well as I am capable of doing. The mercury indicates 20° below zero, and no prospect of a warm change soon. About the 25th of November the weather began to get cold and on the night of the 28th snow fell to the depth of 7½ inches. It cleared off in a day or two and became much colder and on the morning of the 12th of December the thermometer stood 21° below zero. In a few days however it became warmer and snowed several times from one to four inches at a time, with an occasional south or Chinook wind which settled the snow as fast as it fell and also caused a hard crust which made it very difficult for stock to get through when hard frozen. About the 15th of January there came a very good Chinook and by the 20th inst the snow was gone with the exception of the drifts on the north hillsides and those were small. We also had considerable rain with the Chinook the last time and every one began to rejoice over the apparent exit of winter. The next day showed a change in the weather and on the 23d the snow was 7½ inches deep, with the ground frozen to the depth of three or four inches for the first time this season.

But now we will return to the past summer seasons. One year ago last June the 17th, there was a frost that killed or injured nearly all the growing vegetables in this section and on the 29th of July there was another that injured the grain crops. In some localities it was worse than others and in the month of August there was frost every week or oftener. Last summer the last frost was about the 2d of June, and our next frost was in September about the 12th. This season however there was a frost in July in localities where the frost did not harm even mellon vines the season before. In speaking of the cold weather it must be remembered that the snow fell before the cold weather set in and protected the ground from the frost wherever it was not tramped down by stock while the season before our coldest weather was before the snow fell and in consequence the ground was frozen to the depth of a foot or more.

The soil is very rich and productive in the little valleys and creek bottoms where it is not rocky. On most of the creeks that have running water the year round the bottoms are rocky on account of the current being swift and the bed in deep rocky gorges or canyons. The hills are of a yellow or clay soil, which has not been tested for grain or vegetables to much extent. It is said to produce well in some localities and in some not so well. There is an abundance of bunch grass which is equally as nutritious but not so large as the grass that grows down about Walla Walla and the Dalles. The grass here is said to be better for sheep than below, on account of its not being so coarse. The bunch grass grows on the hills in this [illegible] clay soil while in the rich flats the rye grass and knot weed are the most thrifty. However there is more or less bunch grass in the flats and in some instances there is nothing but bunch grass. There are plenty of springs for stock water and for that reason it is a splendid stock range. But unless a man has stock and a little capital I could not advise him to come up into this country to live so long as there is a chance of his making a living where he is, because it is an evident fact that there are a great many here at the present time who are obliged to leave, in order to sustain their families, there being no money here and nothing to bring the article in less the North Pacific Railroad should commence operations in the spring this side of Snake river.

There is one more thing to be mentioned of which is no small item and that is the cricket season. Two years ago last summer there were not many of those insects (some say beasts) but the next summer they were quite plentiful and caused some uneasiness. Last summer they not only caused uneasiness but caused an immense deal of extra labor [illegible] ditch against them and then watch the ditch to see they did not find [illegible] some place to climb or jump the ditches in order to keep their course and destroy everything before them. They did not do so much damage as was expected last year but it was an enormously hot season and with one exception [illegible] things [illegible]

We are not blessed with no more fixed [illegible] [illegible] Columbia river which depreciates the value of our stock and produce and increases the price of [illegible] we are obliged to have. We can when supplied [illegible] [illegible] have [illegible] [illegible] as well as anywhere [illegible] to starve on farming.

There are [illegible] who would [illegible] to see [illegible] [illegible] but better stay [illegible] and before come and see for yourself. Come in the month of April and try until the month of September [illegible] all parts [illegible] [illegible] look for yourself [illegible] [illegible] words concerning it. I have misrepresented the case before you sell or abandon [illegible] comfortable homes to run the chance [illegible] have no home and but small means [illegible] where you are or within the limits of civilization. A living is a pretty good thing now-a-days and so are civilized localities good places to make it.

The city has been very quiet all day. Only a few arrests have been made by the police.

Interior California

WATSONVILLE Feb 22—A terrible tragedy was enacted here last night. W J Gilkey and Dr C [illegible] Cleveland being the actors. There has been great ill feeling between the parties, a deadly feud having existed for some time and culminating last night in the death of both of them. It appears from the testimony of Alfred Devoe who was an eye-witness to the whole affair that about 11 o'clock last night he met Dr Cleveland at the Mansion House and together they walked down town, the Doctor telling Devoe that he was hunting Gilkey and was bound to kill him; that Gilkey had threatened him and he was going for him. Devoe tried to get the Doctor home but did not succeed. They both went into a saloon, drank and went out, Devoe supposing the Doctor would go home; was on the point of leaving when Gilkey appeared on the scene. The Doctor said "There is the son of a — now." Gilkey then started across Maple avenue, using similar language and also saying "I am prepared for you now." They both drew their pistols, which could be seen glistening in the starlight. Devoe here tried to stop them, saying they had gone far enough. The Doctor commenced backing up towards the railing of the sidewalk, Gilkey following. When the Doctor reached the end of the rail both men fired at the same moment. After the first shot and before Cleveland fell he fired again at his antagonist. Gilkey, as he was apparently turning the doctor then fell on his face. Gilkey went back as far as a tree on the corner of the sidewalk, steadied himself a second or so, then fell dead. Neither of them spoke after the first shot. The combatants must have been within two feet of each other when they fired. An alarm was given and the lifeless bodies were picked up and taken away. An inquest was held this morning. Gilkey had been drinking all yesterday afternoon and was very boisterous toward evening. Cleveland had also been drinking. Had this not been the case in all probability the fatal event would not have taken place. The affair has created considerable excitement in town. Both parties have lived here several years. Cleveland was a physician of good standing and had an extensive practice. Gilkey was a millwright and when under the influence of liquor was very abusive and a dangerous man to cross or come in contact with.

LETTER FROM SALEM

[illegible]

SALEM Feb 21 1874

The last week has been more lively than common caused by the holding of the State Temperance Union and the State Temperance Alliance. The former met on Monday and proceeded immediately to business. The number of delegates present showed the deep and widespread interest taken in the great reform. From observation of the workings of both Unions we are inclined to think it is founded on a comparatively sound basis. It guards (in a manner) the admission of members and does not receive delegates from any and every association that may wish to send delegates to mould its action to their special benefit. The session was harmonious. The Union improved its internal machinery by amending its Constitution and by the passage of resolutions taking ground that commits it to plain and emphatic lines of action.

On Wednesday morning the

STATE TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE

Met at the same place, composed largely of delegates from the Union and representative from various Temperance Societies and other Associations some of the latter rather doubtful. The proceedings of this Association had more life and snap than the Union but it jumped at conclusions when it should have investigated with care and quibbled over minor points that did not amount to the time consumed. The subject of defining their position on the temperance question and organizing an independent or third party caused great discussion and there were as many different opinions in regard to the practicability and prospect of success as there were individuals. Several well known gentlemen defined their position in eloquent language.

The great object of the Alliance seemed to be to commit its members, without a possible chance of quibbling on the question of supporting men who were known to be temperance men and who would support a temperance ticket if brought out, if not, to support such men on either ticket as favored the passage of a prohibitory law, thus forming a nucleus around which to form a party to effect them object in future legislation. Time alone will tell whether this move will accomplish its object or not.

The Executive Committee held an informal meeting yesterday at the Chemeketa Hotel, and decided as I learn to correspond with Dr Charles Jewett and other eminent temperance advocates in regard to delivering a course of lectures through this State. A grand

MUSICAL AND LITERARY ENTERTAINMENT

Was given at Reed's Opera House last night, which was largely attended and was decidedly the best affair of the kind that has been given in this city for years. Every person had their part well. The singers consisted of some of the best that the city can boast of while the tableaux were mostly new and well presented. After the performance had been commenced a short time an alarm of fire was sounded. Great excitement ensued which was increased as the flames could be plainly seen from the windows of the Opera House but to others it was consoling to know that it was not in their part of the town. Order was soon restored, and the entertainment proceeded. The fire was another act of incendiarism, destroying the barn of Dr J W Weatherford which contained hay, oats and other stock feed. The loss was not great but these frequent occurrences of incendiarism are getting exceedingly monotonous—so much so that the people do not turn out as promptly as usual. Consequently there will be valuable property burned some night, when prompt effort might save it. The

ANOTHER BANK ROBBERY

CHICAGO Feb 13—Great excitement was created at Quincy Ill this morning by the discovery that the First National Bank had been entered and the vault robbed of about $100 000 in currency belonging to the bank besides a quantity of bonds and valuable papers and it is said quite an amount of special deposits. The bank was entered by cutting the hall floor of the story immediately over the vault. The burglars then made a breach through three feet of masonry of about four feet square. They then cut the rivets of an inch thick sheet iron with which the vault is lined and, removing it, descended into the vault. They then charged both the money safe and one containing the bonds and the valuable papers with powder and by means of a small rubber hose carried a train to the top of the safe where a small pistol was arranged to fire it. A string was attached to this pistol and run out of a window of the second story to the street below and by this means the operators were enabled to discharge their blasts when the streets were clear of people. The door of the safe which was a Dodd's burglar proof was completely wrenched from the hinges. There is no clew whatever to the perpetrators but one McCory recently connected with a variety show, has been arrested on suspicion.

Mr Bowker's barn which was burned at Salem Wednesday night last week, contained besides quite a pile of hay a considerable number of valuable tools and his loss will reach at least $100. W O Kendall Esq, of Benton county has demonstrated that the land in Oregon never wears out. He had a field that had been sown to wheat and oats for 15 or 20 years. He plowed it a foot deep in the fall, and four inches deep in the spring and planted it in corn getting 40 bushels to the acre. Last fall he sowed it in wheat and now the luxuriant grain is tall enough to hide a rabbit.

Following is a copy of a Mormon divorce: "To whomsoever it may concern. This is to certify that in the beginning of 1869 when I gave a bill of divorce to Sarah Ann Lowry I gave to her for the good of her four children the following property viz: A parcel of land of about nine acres enclosed all around with a house of two rooms and one cow and heifer. William C Ritter."

The Salt Lake Tribune says: Incidental to the qualification of female electors of Salt Lake City on the day succeeding the recent election for Mayor and other city officers, a member of high standing in the Church related the following to a company of his Gentile friends: Quite a young lady with an infant in her arms appeared and voted, and returning into the hall says to Lizzie who seemed to be much younger, "now you take the baby and vote." Lizzie did so, and on returning, she turned it over to another young lady who went through the same formula. Mormon says he left but believes if he had staid longer he could have ascertained exactly how many times that baby was voted. Hence the conundrum: "Is a baby necessary to qualification as to age?"

A GROSS OUTRAGE

TENINO W T Feb 21 1874.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Permit an old subscriber to lay open to the public, through your paper, a little of the ring clan's doings in this county.

I came to settle upon a tract of public land as a homestead in Township 1[illegible] N, Range 4 W, in January 1872. The land was near the Chehalis Reservation. It was river bottom and valuable. I built me a cabin and made improvements until about the 1st of March 187[illegible]. I then came to Tenino to work on the railroad leaving the most of my goods in my house and apprising my neighbors of my whereabouts. About the 1st of May I returned to garden and do some fencing. I found my homestead jumped by Col Milroy the Sub-Agent at Chehalis. He claimed to have laid a soldier's warrant on it in my absence through false statements of a Mr Tirtlot, a Government hammer who reported that I was drowned in the Chehalis river, in going over to Tenino and consequently the land was open to settlement. Through the collusion of this pensioner Tirtlot and the sworn statements of Milroy and the Register J P Clark (who is now in an insane asylum), was induced to give preference to the soldier's claim. It so turned out that Milroy was not entitled to any such claim he having held a commission in the army during the rebellion. Upon learning this I went to the Register's office and made the statement to Mr Clark and asked for my reinstatement. He merely remarked that if Milroy was entitled [illegible] that I should take preference. He would give the claim back to me and not without. I returned to my work on the railroad intending in a few days to go and importune the Colonel for my land. He having in the interim learned the facts concerning his inability to hold the claim took a favorite of his and went up to Olympia and had it transferred to said neighbor who is now holding it as a home to [illegible] and who refuses to pay me for the work I did on the land.

SLAUGHTER OF A SHIP'S CREW.—A letter from Sydney, New South Wales gives the following account of the murder of the crew of the bark Pluto and the loss of that vessel. Her Majesty's ship Dido has returned from a cruise bringing as a passenger a seaman, the sole survivor of the crew of the bark Pluto. The ship left Sydney for China with coal some months ago and struck a reef north of New Caledonia. The crew escaping in one of their boats and making for Solomon's Island. On reaching their destination they were mercilessly slaughtered by the natives. The master shot himself rather than be tortured by the savages, and the survivor was spared from a superstitious belief that a half bald [illegible] arrows by which he was pierced had not touched the vital part it would be unlucky to attack him again. The Dido carrying the white man being a captive there rescued him and arrested three of the principal murderers one of whom committed [illegible] [illegible] poison the following night.

MONDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 2 1874

SATISFACTORY [illegible]

Our readers will recollect that some time [illegible] article was copied into the OREGONIAN from the New York World in which it was stated that Mr Farr [illegible] Editor of the OREGONIAN had seen the agreement between Geo H Williams and John Meldrum in regard to certain surveying contracts—an agreement not to be entra[illegible] by any name consistent with official integrity on the part of Mr Williams. It will be further remembered that [illegible] the very next number of the OREGONIAN [illegible] called attention to the matter editorially and explained that the article from the World had been inserted without our knowledge and that it was not true that we had ever seen such an agreement as the one referred to

It would seem this explanation was not satisfactory to the people whom Judge Williams took for his friends when he determined to desert those to whom he owed his position as Senator. Therefore the papers he and his ring keep under subsidy have seen fit to make the matter a ground of attack on us. The Walla Walla [illegible] takes it upon itself to declare that our explanation was insincere and untrue and that the article from the World was published with our cognizance and the explanation only intended as a blind to conceal the malice that prompted the first publication and to avoid the responsibility of having made the direct assertion that the agreement existed This the Portland Bulletin copies, doubtless by prearrangement

The utter groundlessness of this attack would be sufficiently plain to any candid mind from the fact that we not only made the explanation promptly but kept the article from the World, out of the weekly edition of the OREGONIAN The truth is that our sole fault in the business was, not that we acted from ill will toward Judge Williams, but, on the contrary, we allowed our personal regard for him to lead us to stop short of telling all we knew about the objectionable agreement And now since the Judge sees fit to let his dogs loose on our track we propose to give him the benefit of the rest of the truth, assuring him and the scurvy brood he employs, that we can afford to take the responsibility of going to the bottom of this matter, if he and they can afford to challenge the inquiry We therefore say unequivocally and directly that the agreement between Williams and Meldrum was no fiction but a fact and that, although we never saw it, we know plenty of good responsible men who have seen it, who will testify to the fact any day when called upon to do so Here now is an opportunity for Mr Williams to come to the front, and vindicate himself if this thing is not true In his famous but most unfortunate 'floodgate' letter, Judge Williams could have had no reference to the OREGONIAN, for at that time no word against his personal integrity had ever found a place in these columns nor indeed until now, except that one allusion which was published under the circumstances already related We have seen the Eastern papers literally full to overflowing with charges of personal dishonesty against him, and sometimes we have feared they were not wholly groundless, but we have still deprecated these attacks, and refrained from taking part in them We have not desired to 'floodgate' him, nor taken pleasure in seeing others do so But his mouthpieces insist upon having the truth out and he does not muzzle them So let it come The story about this Meldrum Williams agreement is true, and we engage to furnish the proof if an investigation of the case be ordered

We trust this explanation is more satisfactory to the subsidized press than that which they have just been considering

GOING THE RIGHT WAY

In a postscript to a business letter from Grant county, the writer, who is a man of high standing and excellent opportunities for information, says, the independent movement takes like wildfire in that region It is understood that no strict party ticket, Republican or Democratic, will stand the least chance of election as the independent movement embraces more than half the members of both the old parties

In that county, as elsewhere, the movement is essentially an uprising of the farmers, and will be controlled by them to a very large extent The order of the day is for politicians to stand aside and let the people, the bone and sinew—moral as well as physical—of the State step into that position in political affairs to which by their relations to the aggregate number of population as well as to the industries and wealth of the country they are entitled It is not class legislation or class rule that the promoters of this movement seek but the prevention of class legislation and class rule Under the reign of party, with its discipline, its caucuses, its manipulations of men and means that which in its nature is very simple and easy of comprehension—the selecting of capable and honest men for official position—became impracticable and the machinery of politics became so complex that only professionals were expected to participate any further than to go to the polls and vote the party ticket unquestioningly This has the whole country passed under class rule and the [illegible] class the professional politicians They [illegible] the management of the [illegible] State Government the Legislature [illegible] the Executive the Judiciary [illegible] under their control [illegible] [illegible] privileged [illegible] the [illegible] of government And the [illegible] of other States and but partially in time of the National Government It is time for the people to emancipate themselves and, by a bold and courageous stand for their rights bring back the old time which middle-aged men can just remember when candidates for office were not the fruit of secret caucuses and when men did not expect to secure a majority of votes simply because their party had nominated them and without regard to [illegible] fitness When the political affairs of the country are brought back to that basis the rate of taxation will recede to its old figure of four or five mills in place of the fifteen or twenty or even thirty that are now levied Substitute the simple homely honesty of the old-time officers for the extravagance and [illegible] of the present times and the secret of public economy will solve itself and with its solution will the burdens of unnecessary taxation be lifted from the shoulders of the people

THE PEOPLE ALIVE

The call for an Independent Convention in Polk county which we publish in another column has the right ground And it has the support of a large majority of the prominent citizens of the county of both parties The list of names already published—which we omit for want of space—comprises those of many who have been long and familiarly known in business circles, not only in the county but in other parts of the State Of those whose former political affiliations are known to us the list appears to be about equally divided between Republicans and Democrats It is evident that the people of Polk county have made up their minds to be party ridden no longer The necessity for action has become so apparent, that the movement can not be suppressed by any of the appliances peculiar to party machinery

Meanwhile, Benton county takes up the echo from other sections of the State and sets the ball in motion But in this instance it is on a scale still broader The call in that county contemplates an independent State ticket as well as county and district This will be responded to throughout the State. The movement is as greatly needed in State as in county matters The extravagances that burden the country and eat out its substance are not confined to local matters The intelligent independent people of Oregon, are resolved to seek out the evil and remedy it

The Walla Walla Union which has been in the habit of sneezing whenever John Hipple takes snuff and the dirty work of which we refer to in another place is edited by a fellow whom Hipple picked up some years ago in a grub patch in the mountains back of Portland and kept in his office as a tool for the performance of doubtful jobs for about two years He then tried to practice law but owing to his being the victim of a habit in his youth which reduced him to a condition little above idiocy—if indeed he was not so from birth—he could not make his way at the bar and so he went to Walla Walla to run a hand organ for the Hipple gang The people of Portland where he is known would require no further answer to anything he may say, than to be informed that it emanated from Ed Ross and we owe them an apology for taking any notice of the long fetlocked scrub whom they used to see performing musty jobs for Hipple One excuse is, that possibly others, who know less of him may be deceived by him

General Van Buren's case is in a queer fix His name has been before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations for several weeks yet there is no prospect of confirmation A Washington special of February 6th to the Chicago Tribune asserts that Secretary Fish has decided to write a letter to the Committee virtually declining to furnish the correspondence in relation to the Vienna scandal which has been called for He is understood to entertain the opinion that nothing is contained in these letters which will reflect discredit on Van Buren He thinks, further that the Senate may very properly confirm the nominee to the Consulate of Kanagawa without further investigation Those who have read the charges and counter charges which brought about Van Buren's removal from the Vienna Commission will hardly agree with Mr Fish

John C Henry Chief Clerk in the United States Revenue Office at Lynchburg (Va), has absconded with a large amount of money—estimated at $100 000 Twenty thousand dollars was found secreted in a drawer Perhaps he will imitate the cheek of a New York broker and ask the Collector to forward the remaining $20 000 This New York broker—[illegible] Winship by name—left his native haunts and a defalcation of $400 000—no assets Very soon he wrote his attorneys instructing them to circulate a petition praying his creditors to pledge themselves not to arrest him upon either civil or criminal suit The idiot has actually returned to New York city in the expectation that his request will be heeded And perhaps it will be heeded Who knows?

The Illinois Legislature has adopted a bill limiting to three years after the first of next July, the liability of towns and counties that have voted aid to railroads and providing that no bonds shall be issued or stock subscribed to any railroad company after such time upon account of or upon the authority of such vote There is the qualification of course that the act shall not apply in any case where the express conditions of the vote extend the time for building beyond the period aforesaid The Legislature has refused also to abolish the board of railroad commissioners

The case of certain tax payers of Kalamazoo Michigan against the Board of Education of that city in which suit was brought to enjoin the Board from collecting taxes to support high schools on the ground that the levying and collecting of taxes for the support of schools in which ancient or modern languages are taught is illegal—has been decided The Supreme Court [illegible] holds that there is nothing in the Constitution or laws to justify the resistance of the tax payers This decision it is said settles [illegible] troubles in many towns in Michigan

The New York [illegible] says that the New York journal which [illegible] [illegible] with dreary forecastings [illegible] [illegible] is busily engaged [illegible] the gossip of Senators and Representatives [illegible] the [illegible] of the third term [illegible] absurd [illegible] debate [illegible]

As [illegible] the House of Representatives [illegible] Joseph J [illegible] of Illinois The [illegible] reward for [illegible] [illegible] between the [illegible] Nevada and Trinity Mountains in November and December [illegible]

THAT LETTER —It has been suggested by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate that the forty page letter of Attorney General Williams in reply to the charges [illegible] against his nomination as Chief Justice should be made public with all the testimony taken by the committee on the subject Mr Williams consent to that proceeding would remove the injunction of secrecy from the committee and furnish the country with some very interesting reading The scandal which he so much [illegible] [illegible] from the official family and [illegible] rage has taken [illegible] —Wal [illegible]

BENTON COUNTY Feb [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Subjoined is a copy of a "Call to the Tax payers of Benton County which as I understand has only been circulated one day among the farmers and has over one hundred signatures of the best citizens in the county, nearly every person to whom it was presented [illegible] signed it You will notice that the call proposes an Independent State Convention as well as County Convention [illegible] that the tax payers will be [illegible] benefited by securing reform and economy in the State administration as they will by reform in the county INDEPENDENT

A Call to the Tax-Payers of Benton County

WHEREAS The existing political parties [illegible] organized [illegible] and tend to [illegible] and place in opposition to each other those who ought politically to act together for their mutual protection and for their general welfare and

WHEREAS By these divisions a small minority of active and selfish persons are enabled to manipulate themselves into the offices of both county and State and then use their official positions in creating and executing measures of great extravagance and waste in the ruinous expense of the tax payers—as the increase of the tax levy in this county within the last four years from seven to eight [illegible] mills and the increase of the biennial appropriations by the State Legislature from $[illegible] 000 to $[illegible] 000 clearly demonstrate

Therefore For the purpose of economy, protection against oppression from monopolies and generally the better administering of the affairs of the county and State it is respectfully recommended that the tax payers of Benton county without regard to former political affiliations meet in their respective precincts on Saturday the 28th day of March, at 1 o'clock P M and elect delegates to a County Convention to be held in Corvallis on Saturday the 4th day of April 1874 to select candidates irrespective of party for county officers and also to elect delegates to a State Convention, should other counties see proper to join in this independent movement. Each precinct to elect one delegate for every [illegible] voters and fraction over [illegible] voters in the precinct

A CALL

TO THE TAX PAYERS AND LABORING MEN OF ALL CLASSES OF POLK COUNTY

WHEREAS In view of the fact that the best interests of laboring men of all classes have hitherto been wholly subverted and wantonly neglected by would be friends and midnight schemers of political parties and that burdensome taxes have been levied and unjust legislation had which has invariably worked a hardship on laboring men everywhere therefore be it

Resolved That as laboring men we will come out and make a firm stand against such unjust oppression and assert our rights as freemen irrespective of old party ties and prejudices and will ever be found battling for just and impartial law and will to the bitter end oppose any and all efforts by designing tricksters and dishonest politicians for riding into office by this bartering and selling game thereby trampling under foot the will of the people

Resolved That we have the moral courage to cut ourselves loose from party and openly and earnestly contend for the rights of laboring men of all classes that we will support none but honest and temperate men for office and that we will hereafter oppose any and all chronic and constitutional office seekers

Therefore as laboring men we call upon the tax payers of Polk county irrespective of party or occupation (who advocate the principles herein enumerated) to meet at their respective places of holding elections on Monday the 2d day of March, 1874, at 1 o'clock P M to select from the tax payers irrespective of party delegates to attend a County Convention to be held at Dallas on Wednesday the 4th day of March 1874 at 10 o'clock A M to nominate suitable men as candidates for the next June election—one delegate for every 15 votes and one delegate for every fraction over 8 votes taking for a basis the aggregate vote for Wilson and Burnett

We recommend also that each county in the State move in this matter

CITY.

[illegible] —Early yesterday morning George [illegible] well known in this city came down to headquarters and made complaint that his wife was insane and [illegible] placed under arrest [illegible] she was violent was breaking up the furniture and that he was fearful she would commit some serious bodily harm to the children or himself With the [illegible] of the terrible and sickening tragedy [illegible] by Mr Carey in the murder of himself and helpless offspring still fresh [illegible] Lappeus [illegible] dispatched an officer with [illegible] to the residence of Mr [illegible] The officer [illegible] found the lady clothed [illegible] and so far as appearances [illegible] every indication of [illegible] He had no alternative however [illegible] the lady under arrest and [illegible] take her to the city jail Arriving there she [illegible] story to Chief Lappeus [illegible] She said she had come home late on Saturday [illegible] very much intoxicated and proceeded [illegible] to chastise [illegible] and [illegible] of him. In the same [illegible] she said he was in the habit of getting drunk frequently and of beating and abusing her [illegible] to provide for herself and children [illegible] likewise charged against the husband [illegible] alleging that she was compelled to [illegible] hard to gain a livelihood and often was obliged to pawn articles about the house to keep her children from suffering with hunger Officer [illegible] stated that he had seen Price in a saloon up town late on Saturday evening drinking and considerably under the influence On hearing the story of the [illegible] Chief Lappeus wisely concluded that he had arrested the wrong person that the woman was perfectly sane and that the husband was the offending party and ought to have been arrested He therefore allowed the wife to return home So far as we are informed no complaint has been entered against Price

[illegible] —As might reasonably have been anticipated the express robber Budlong did not suffer [illegible] grass to grow under his restless [illegible] after the requisite bonds were obtained by his uncle Mr [illegible] One thousand dollars is considerable money under ordinary circumstances but it is a small sum comparatively when one's liberty is menaced on so grave a charge a robbing in broad daylight the express of $8 000 Thus reasoned Budlong and thus reasoning he resolved to fly to some unpestered vale where laws are unknown rather than run the risk of staying. [illegible] the train bound north carried him [illegible] and flax n locks beyond the gaze the average Kalamaite It is said that his destination was Victoria At that point he would doubtless embark for San Francisco and the haunts which have long known Budlong [illegible] [illegible] of nature [illegible] should never have been [illegible] $4,000 was fixed at the ridiculously low sum of $1 000 which he was [illegible] without any delay it would be absurd to suppose that Budlong would be [illegible] enough to wait the tedious course of [illegible] Fagan at last accounts was still in Kalama Liberty is a sweet boon, and [illegible] that the community [illegible] painfully shocked if this gentleman [illegible] come up missing some bright morning We are sure no one would be uncharitable enough to blame him

[illegible] —Yesterday being the 22d was the anniversary of the birthday of the illustrious patriot statesman and soldier who was "First in peace first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen" Owing to the sacred character of the day it was not observed except by the firing of the national salute by the Portland [illegible] Battery However the event will be duly observed today by the military organizations of the city with music parade etc We learn that the three companies—Washington Guard Emmet Guard City Rifles and a large delegation from Canby and Baker Post G A R intend to join the parade and participate in the appropriate observance of the day A fine turnout may be anticipated In the evening the Washington Guard give a ball, at their Armory to which reference is made elsewhere

A FATAL FALL —During the voyage of the bark [illegible] from Shields England to San Francisco a sailor named William Walbrook fell from the rigging and was instantly killed At the time of the unfortunate occurrence the vessel was off Cape Horn Walbrook and several other seamen were aloft adjusting some portion of the rigging when the former lost his [illegible] or was torn from his position by the [illegible] of the ship and fell from one of the yards to the deck a distance of [illegible] feet He never spoke or breathed after striking Deceased was a young man aged about 30 years and a German by birth With sorrow the [illegible] his companions committed the remains [illegible] on the arrival of the vessel at San Francisco the fact were [illegible] by the Captain to the authorities

[illegible] THE WORLD-WIDE TWINKLE [illegible] have certainly not forgotten Mr B H Bu[illegible] who acted as a sort of harbinger to the [illegible] Troupe in the capacity of agent when [illegible] visited this city The San Francisco [illegible] has the following concerning the young gentleman [illegible] the agent for Madame Anna Bishop [illegible] like Jaguro seemed to be "the [illegible] and everywhere" has suddenly disappeared and those who are the most [illegible] don't know where to find him He was last seen shortly after the [illegible] in Sacramento Buttle [illegible] have it [illegible] shots come to the front and [illegible] principal [illegible] fever or [illegible]

A COINCIDENCE —There is a noteworthy coincidence [illegible] with the vessels [illegible] the [illegible] Both were [illegible] at [illegible] Warren Rhode Island on the same identical ways although [illegible] [illegible]

MONDAY MORNING FEBRUARY [illegible] 1874

CITY.

DO [illegible] BRON —Early yesterday morning, George Price well known in this city came down to Police headquarters and made complaint to Lappeus that his wife was insane and he desired to have her placed under arrest at once. He [illegible]red the case up by stating she was very violent was breaking up the crockery and furniture and that he was fearful she would commit some serious bodily harm to her children or himself. With the memory of the terrible and sickening tragedy so recently enacted by Mrs Earley in the murder of her tender and helpless offspring still fresh in his mind Lappeus dispatched an officer with all possible haste to place the woman under arrest. The officer [illegible] arrested and repaired at once to the residence of Mrs Price. To his surprise he found the lady clothed and in her right mind and so far as appearances were concerned gave every indication of perfect sanity. He had no alternative, however, but to place the lady under arrest and take her to the city jail. Arriving there she gave her version of the story to Chief Lappeus. She said her husband came home late on Saturday night very much intoxicated and proceeded like a vigorous white man to chastise his wife. After abusing her for a while he left and she saw nothing more of him. In the same connection she said he was in the habit of getting drunk frequently and of beating and abusing her failing to provide for herself and children was likewise charged against the husband the wife alleging that he was compelled to toil hard to gain a livelihood and often was obliged to pawn articles about the house to keep her children from suffering with hunger. Officer Corcoran stated that he had seen Price in a saloon up town late on Saturday evening drinking and considerably under the influence. On hearing the story of the wife Chief Lappeus wisely concluded that he had arrested the wrong person that the woman was perfectly sane and that the husband was the offending party and ought to have been arrested. He therefore allowed the wife to return home. So far as we are informed no complaint has been entered against Price.

VALE BUDLONG —As might reasonably have been anticipated, the express robber Budlong did not suffer Kalama grass to grow under his restless soles, after the requisite bonds were obtained by his uncle Mr Humphrey. One thousand dollars is considerable money under ordinary circumstances but it is a small sum comparatively when one's liberty is menaced on such a grave charge as robbing in broad daylight, the express of $8,000. Thus reasoned Budlong and thus reasoning he resolved to fly to some sequestered vale where laws are unknown, rather than run the risk of staying. Last Friday's train bound north, carried his rubicund phiz and flaxen locks beyond the gaze of the average Kalamaite. It is said that his destination was Victoria. At that point he will doubtless embark for San Francisco and the haunts which have long known Budlong will know him no more. This is not to be wondered at for it is simply self protection, the first law of nature. When his bond which should never have been placed below $6,000, was fixed at the ridiculously low sum of $1,000 which he was able to furnish without an hour's delay, it would be absurd to suppose that Budlong would be accommodating enough to wait the tedious course of justice. Fagan, at last accounts was stall at Kalama. Liberty is a sweet boon and example is contagious so that the community need not be painfully shocked if this gentleman, too, shall come up missing some bright morning. We are sure no one would be uncharitable enough to blame him.

TO CELEBRATE.—Yesterday being the 22d was the anniversary of the birthday of the illustrious patriot statesman and soldier who was "First in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen." Owing to the sacred character of the day it was not observed except by the firing of the usual salute by the Portland Light Battery. However, the event will be duly observed to day by the military organizations of the city, with music, parade, etc. We learn that the three companies—Washington Guard, Emmet Guard, City Rifles and a large delegation from Canby and Baker Post G A R, intend to join the parade and participate in the appropriate observance of the day. A large turnout may be anticipated. In the evening the Washington Guard give a ball, at their Armory, to which reference is made elsewhere.

A FATAL FALL —During the voyage of the bark Colona from Shields England to San Francisco, a sailor named William Walbrook fell from the rigging and was instantly killed. At the time of the unfortunate occurrence the vessel was off Cape Horn. Walbrook, and several other seamen were aloft adjusting some portion of the rigging, when the former lost his footing or was torn from his position by the lurching of the ship, and fell from one of the yards to the deck, a distance of nearly 70 feet. He never spoke or breathed after striking. Deceased was a young man aged about 20 years and a German by birth. With sorrowful hearts his companions committed the remains to the remorseless deep and on the arrival of the vessel at San Francisco the facts were duly reported by the Captain to the authorities.

WHERE THE WOODBINE TWINETH —Readers have certainly not forgotten Mr H H Buttle who acted as a sort of harbinger for the Bishop Troupe in the capacity of advance agent when they visited this city. The San Francisco Call has the following concerning the young gentleman: "The ubiquitous Buttle business agent for Madame Anna Bishop who formerly like Figaro seemed to be 'here there and everywhere' has suddenly disappeared and those who are the most closely interested 'don't know where to find him.' He was lost to view shortly after the late concert in Sacramento. Buttle, if you have not been shanghaied or slung shotted come to the front, and save your principals from an unexpected attack of bilious fever on your account."

A COINCIDENCE.—There is a noteworthy coincidence connected with two vessels now in port. These vessels are the Pekin and Colona. Both were constructed at the ship yard at Warren, Rhode Island, on the same identical ways, although one is older than the other the Pekin having been built about one year before the Colona. After many years tossing on the stormy main these two vessels have by the merest chance arrived at the same wharf to load with the same kind of cargo and destined for the same port.

VESSELS IN PORT —The following vessels are now in port: Chusan [illegible] Lloyd [illegible] Pitt [illegible] Webfoot Colona [illegible] and [illegible]. The Jennie Pitt and Chas [illegible] arrived in tow of [illegible]. The former vessel is now lying at anchor out in the middle of the stream. The tug did not remain at the wharf a few minutes but went [illegible] to Astoria without delay.

AMUSEMENTS.

Last Saturday evening the Skating Rink was crowded with ladies and gentlemen spectators. The usual large number of skaters were also present. One of the most attractive features of the evening was the apple eating contest in which the small boys participated. As ever the Rink continues to be one of the most popular and well patronized place of amusement in the city.

Yesterday being the anniversary of Washington's Birthday the stars and stripes were flying from almost every flagstaff in the city and on the vessels in port the colors were displayed profusely

The steamer Ajax sailed on Tuesday and was delayed on the way by strong head winds. Many thought she had turned back and started again on Friday. She arrived at 4 o'clock yesterday being five days and four hours out

Why don't some of our San Francisco journalists take a few lessons in geography? The following paragraph is clipped from an exchange under the head of Oregon Items: "Work on the Cumberland river fisheries is progressing rapidly." The same which is good

The cargo of the Oriflamme on her last trip down was 1,401 boxes apples 76 kegs dried apples, 90 sks wheat 15 cs cider 3,035 sks oats 1,120 hf sks flour 455 sks flour 383 sks onions 567 hides 4 bbls beef 70 bdls skins 3 bdls trees 8 bales wool 6 pkgs, and 26 bls mdse 140 bxs eggs 200 bdls hoops 2 cs and 18 pkgs household goods 1 pkg castings 29 bbls salmon 70 hf bbls salmon 1 cs gloves 15 sks seed 1 horse 4 plows 1 organ

An Eastern exchange tells the following story and credits the same to an Oregon paper: "I can't jine the grange." "I am sorry," was the reply, "we had counted on you." "No, I can't jine," said the voter, "because they've let the women in and they'll work it round so as to get to vote directly and I won't have nuthin to do with it. The women is gettin above their privileges anyway. They don't stay enough at home now as St Paul commanded and I tell you I won't have nothin to do with granges." A base slander.

The Rev Mr Hetzler agent of the American Bible Society visited our place a few days since and promises to visit us again soon to address us on the Bible cause

There is to be a great rally this afternoon (Saturday) on the temperance cause. The Temperance Alliance will meet at City Hall to take into consideration the lightening of taxation and lessening of the social evils caused by the traffic in strong drink. The judicious legislation. There is a strong element here in favor of breaking up old political party lines and of voting for the best men at the coming election

Spring moves forward slowly but surely. It is too rainy to do much gardening yet although a beginning has been made. Peas planted about two weeks ago have sprouted and are just coming to the surface. Onions from set and other vegetables that will bear our light frosts are coming forward. Surely the Columbia valley is only a little behind California in early vegetables. What we need are men who will give their attention to it, so we shall not depend upon California for our early vegetables

OREGON UNION COUNCIL

From a communication published in the Farmer we learn that the last meeting of the Oregon Union Council, held a short time since in the Odd Fellows Hall East Portland was a very harmonious and pleasant one. Trade cards have been published and will be sent to Masters of subordinate Granges as soon as possible. Masters will issue them free of charge to members of their own Grange who are clear of the books

Granges recently organized and not represented at the last meeting, which desire to become members of the Council and have the use of trade cards before the next meeting, can forward one dollar to O P Lent, East Portland who will forward the cards by mail

Mr. Mills of Marshfield, will furnish goods to Patrons at reduced rates. Will also attend to shipping produce and make collections free of charge

The next meeting will be holden at room No 3 Corbett's building, west Portland the second Tuesday in March at one o'clock P M. For the benefit of Granges recently organized it is stated that the payment of one dollar constitutes a Grange a member of the Council and entitles it to send three delegates, of whom the Master shall be one

A CANINE LAWSUIT

A RICH LEGAL DOCUMENT

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette

COLUMBUS, [illegible] — About the funniest thing that has occurred in Columbus for a long time is the suit of Joseph Weber, by his next friend Joseph Matt, vs National Merion, to recover damages in $5,000 because, as alleged, Merion's dog bit the plaintiff November 26, 1872.

All the parties to the suit are well known here, and prominent legal talent (Judge Rankin and H. J. Wylie for plaintiff and [illegible] English and Judge Baldwin for defendant) is employed on both sides. The case came up for hearing this afternoon before Judge Green and was opened in the presence of a large crowd of spectators.

The petition of the plaintiff sets forth the facts in ordinary legal language, but the defendant's answer, which I take from the Dispatch of this evening, is more ambitious and proceeds in the following vein of drollery and richness:

Defendant says that on said 26th day of November 1872, and for some time prior thereto, his daughter was the owner of a small dog, about ten inches in height, weighing from fifteen to twenty pounds, black-and-tan in color and of a gentle playful disposition, such as are generally found and kept by children and members of a family as a pet or plaything. This dog was in the habit of following him and other members of the family, as such dogs generally do, often about the city and from his residence, which is to say 100 yards from the grocery store referred to in the petition, to the said store, and frequently at his said dog's volition to go back and forth from said residence to said store and about the vicinity thereof, be having himself in a very quiet and docile manner toward all mankind. Plaintiff's next friend Joseph Matt, who is plaintiff's brother-in-law, and with whom plaintiff lives, has a drug store diagonally across the street from aforesaid grocery store, say 125 feet distant, and was at that time and prior thereto the owner and possessor of a dog of similar species, perhaps a little larger in size. These two dogs had formed an acquaintance with each other which by some means had led to a sort of emulation or rivalry between them of such a nature as to produce a continuous and ever renewed attempt on the part of either when they met to gain the superiority each over the other, and as it never was decisively determined which was the victor, whenever they saw or approached each other the contest always commenced afresh. Each on his own premises was eager for the fray and was invincible, but each on the premises of the other was timid, peaceful and ready to retire, and when in the course of duty or pleasure one passed near the domicile of the other he hastened to escape with drooping ears and lowly tail, while the other pursued with boldness and courage until the domicile of the other was neared, when, turning at bay, the scene quickly changed and the pursuer became the pursued. These raids and conflicts, usually harmless because of the insignificance of the combatants, attracted the notice of various persons and especially of the respective persons and parties by whom said dogs were owned or kept, and as their modes of battles and tournament, attack and retreat were ludicrous and afforded amusement, was encouraged by said parties. The said dogs seemed to be aware of the interest excited, and while thus contending for their respective homes, their altars and their firesides,' marked well and noted each their opponent's backers and allies, and seemed to expect when either appeared that their champion was near, and all expected the dog to do his duty in the approaching conflict. Defendant is unable to state how this dogged sentiment was formed, but he believes it to have existed, as it was distinctly demonstrated in their actions. Plaintiff and his next friend on his part did encourage and incite their dog when opportunity offered, to attack the dog mentioned in the petition, and the last mentioned dog thereby seemed to consider plaintiff as offering battle with the plaintiff's next friend's dog when ever plaintiff approached him, and when this occurred near plaintiff's next friend's drug store (as often times he did open the door of said store and incite said dog to attack the dog in the petition mentioned when passing there) the dog in petition mentioned would, as before mentioned, avoid the conflict, but when occurring at said grocery store, or at a distance from said drug store, said dog was always ready and anxious for a fight, waiting and expecting hostile demonstrations of plaintiff and his next friend's dog, and therefore it occurred on or about the said November 26, 1872, when the said plaintiff came into the said grocery store, the dog in the petition mentioned, theretofore quiet, harmless and quiet toward all others, discerning him alone and hastening to acquit himself as usual of his rival, offered the usual gage of combat, but, not seeing or discerning as expected, the next friend's dog in the list, approached the plaintiff, and to attract his attention merely, and not in violence or anger, but gently and amiably, laid his mouth on the plaintiff's outer garments, as if in canine language to say 'Here I am, where's your dog?' and in so doing defendant says, said dog did not injure plaintiff, as he believes."

NO END OF BOOK-MAKING

WHAT SOME BOSTON AUTHORS ARE DOING

A correspondence of the New York Tribune, dated Boston January 12th, says: Longfellow is always occupied in his library at Cambridge at work on something good. It is rumored that he has a poem in preparation which is not to see the light until autumn. His last book, "Aftermath," has had an exceptionally large sale both in Europe and America. Holmes is busy every day at one o'clock lecturing to his medical class, which is always a full one. Sometimes, as was the case a few days since, the students applaud him vociferously, for his wit cannot be controlled even while he is discoursing of the gravest subjects. Parsons, the translator of Dante, and a poet of genius, has returned from London, where he has been sojourning for a year, and has taken rooms in a charming eyrie near the common. From his perch near the clouds he sees things manifold and fine, which he puts now and then into a sonnet or a song. Lowell still lingers in Paris, buying old books and deep in antique French and Spanish lore. Somebody saw him last month on the Quai Voltaire smoking his pipe and "snatching a fearful joy out of an old folio." Charles Sprague, the poet of half a century ago and a man everybody loves, no longer goes out of his sunny room in Washington street. He is the oldest Boston born poet and will reach the nineties ere long.

Whipple is industriously occupied on The Globe newspaper, and has lately printed some charming recollections of Agassiz in its columns. His pen moves forward instead of backward and he never wrote better literary articles than he is doing now. Emerson read a poem at the ladies' tea-party last month, which is already in type for the February Atlantic. He made old Faneuil Hall ring again as he stood up to recite it, with all his wonted energy. There is a talk about town which indulges the hope that the Concord philosopher may be induced to give some lectures on Egypt, a country he visited last year. Dana, the old poet, the friend of Bryant and Irving, is spending his old age in reading and listening to music. At the Harvard concerts his long and flowing white locks are conspicuous always, and he rarely misses those musical festivals. He is fast approaching 90 and looks 20 years this side of it. Fields, whose lectures on subjects connected with modern English literature have been three times repeated by invitation in Boston, since November has again been asked to give them here in a day course during March or April. They are next to be heard at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore, in February. When they were first delivered at the Lowell Institute the applicants for tickets numbered 5,000, but the hall could only accommodate 1,300. Mr. Lowell invited Mr. Fields to go on at once and repeat the course, but at that time the lecturer's time was wholly occupied.

Dr. Clark, the author of a small book on the education of girls, has found himself famous in every direction. His work has gone already to a seventh edition, and he is praised and abused in public and in private to that extent he could not ask for greater notice. He is in the front rank of his profession, and is a most wise and cultured gentleman. England, France and Germany have responded gratefully to his treatise, and his name is now a current one in the societies and salons of Europe. Gray, the new Chief Justice, who stands nearly seven feet in his leather, commands universal respect for his sanity of judgment and his modesty on the bench. When he gets on the back of a horse, which is every day, everybody pities the animal, for what with the personal weight of the Judge and the legal one not to be reckoned in pounds, it must be a heavy load to trot with over the mill dam. The Chief Justice and Phillips Brooks are the best looking men in the city and represent the most avoirdupois. Charles Francis Adams is reported to be writing an historical work, but like gray [illegible] he is silent as a stone in regard to his own intellectual and political studies.

THE SPORTING [illegible] — There are few old servant ones who have lived long in Columbus who have not [illegible] intelligent and splendid [illegible] belonging to Messrs. Charles Heyman, Henry Averill and W. K. Brown. Their progenitor has a history. At the battle of Spottsylvania Court House, [illegible] Confederates [illegible] which was General A. J. Wright's brigade of Georgians, was harassed by tremendous fires of Federal [illegible]. The [illegible] party was repulsed with terrible [illegible]. In front of the advancing column was [illegible] dog who advanced ferociously and barking to our lines. No gun was pointed at him. Of all the terrible [illegible] advancing, eleven to one, only this dog got over the Confederate breastworks, and he was captured by some members of the City Light Guard, of the 2d Georgia battalion. He was brought to Columbus—loved his Southern master better than his. His progeny embrace the smartest dogs in the country. The Yankee-Southern dog died here some months ago at a good old age.—Columbus (Ga.) Sun

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

SATURDAY EVENING, February [illegible]

Gold in New York to-day 112¼.

Portland Legal Tenders buying 89, selling 90.

Gold bars are quotable at 725a750 fine.

Exchange on San Francisco at [illegible] of 1 percent premium.

Liverpool Wheat, by mail advices from San Francisco 1 s 4d@1 [illegible] 5d for average California, and 1 s 6d@1 s 10d for club.

The reports received from business men indicate a continued fair supply of available funds in our home market, and borrowers find accommodation in securing loans, both at the banks and on the outside, on reasonably fair terms on prime commercial paper. The bulk of the grain crop having now been marketed and a still greater proportion having left first hands, we ought to see shortly a restoration of the equilibrium between the amount of circulating medium among merchants, producers and consumers so necessary to a healthy condition of trade.

The difference between exports and imports will in a great measure, determine the growth of a country in wealth, and judging by such a standard, Oregon, in common with the balance of the United States, ought to have made considerable progress during the past few months. Her exports of grain, flour and other products have exceeded her current imports by much more than ever before. From the Eastern cities we learn that the import trade is slightly increasing, but at New York in continues light. This is particularly noticeable in the department of dry goods. The financial troubles last September inaugurated a cautious policy on the part of importers which has been vigorously followed up to the present time. The value of the dry goods entered at New York last month compares as follows:

Imports for January 1872	$11,590,000
Imports for January 1873	1[illegible],571,000
Imports for January 1874	8,8[illegible]5,700

It will be noticed that the imports were 30 per cent less than for the same month last year and nearly 40 per cent less than in 1872. Another feature of interest is the large amount thrown on the market, the value for the last month being $[illegible]194,000, or $350,000 in excess of the imports. In the corresponding month of the two previous years the amount thrown on the market was over $1,400,000 less than the imports for those months. It is safe to say that stocks are lighter than they have been for six months, and trade will probably soon revive.

Miscellaneous.

The demand for lumber in California being very light and prices low, the Puget Sound Lumber Dealers' Association has been resuscitated, with a view to improving the condition of the San Francisco market. It has been resolved to cut down the importation one third. For instance, a mill like that of Tacoma, sending there 1,200,000 feet a month, will be restricted hereafter to 800,000.

At San Francisco the brig Timandra, 120 tons, has been sold for $5,000 gold coin to J. C. Merrill & Co. The ship Canada, 1,1[illegible] tons, has also been sold; Geo. Howes & Co. purchasing her for $10,000 currency.

During January, 3,130 tons of Bellingham Bay coal arrived at San Francisco, which was freely disposed of to the trade at $8.50 per ton. Coos Bay sent 1,178 tons and the price fell $1 per ton.

The aggregate receipts of wheat at this port last week were about 7,500 bushels.

The following is a list of the Salmon canneries on the Lower Columbia river to be in operation the coming season: William Hume, Eagle Cliff; Geo. Hume, Eagle Cliff (being enlarged); Jos. Hume, Eagle Cliff (new); Hapgood & Co., Waterford (new); F. M. Warren, Cathlamet (new); R. D. Hume, Bay View (being enlarged); Columbia River Salmon Company, Glen Ella (in course of erection); Megler, Jewett & Co., Jim Crow (in course of erection); John West & Co., Westport; R. D. Hume, Rainier (in course of erection); Watson Bros., Manhattan (being enlarged); Oregon Packing Co., near Cathlamet (new); Randolph & Co., Upper Astoria (in course of erection). There will be an average of ten gill nets to each cannery, and the catch is expected to reach five thousand fish for each net.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax, from San Francisco, arrived at [illegible] M. to-day (Sunday) with a large number of passengers and a fair freight list.

The California for Sitka is announced to leave this port March 14th.

The Barks Pekin and Etta Stewart have not yet sailed, but will probably leave early next week.

The Coloma, Silver Cloud, Webfoot, Nabob, Jenny Pitts and Chasca are all in port, the two latter having arrived since our last, in tow of the [illegible] Brenham.

The Emma Augusta, from San Francisco, is on her way up the river.

The Free Trade is coming up the river in tow of the Merrimac.

THE RECENT FRAUD ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

A New York dispatch of February [illegible] gives the following account of the trick recently played on the Stock Exchange of that city [illegible] will [illegible] brokers.

A great fraud was perpetrated on the Stock Exchange to-day, the greatest in the history of that institution. After the second call a man handed one of the pages a letter addressed to Moses H. Wheelock, Vice President, who [illegible] the page delivered. Wheelock at once read it to the Board. It was dated Western Union Telegraph Company, New York, February [illegible] and formally notified the Stock Exchange that the Directors of that company after mature deliberation and acting as they believed in accordance with the ultimate interests of the company, had decided to increase the capital stock from $41,000,000 to $[illegible],000,000 and giving details of the proposed use of the proceeds of the new stock. The letter was signed William Orton, President. Hardly was [illegible] reading concluded when the page presented another letter, also addressed to Wheelock, and which he also read immediately. It was dated at the office of the Toledo, Wabash and Western Railroad, New York, [illegible] and notified the Board that at the expiration of 30 days the companies would issue $10,000,000 worth of new stock, giving details of the proposed use of the proceeds. The letter was signed by J. [illegible] Cox. The reading of these letters caused great excitement in the Exchange and it resulted in [illegible] a general stampede to sell stocks, especially Western Union and Wabash. Amid the general confusion some members of [illegible] [illegible] had the good sense to examine the [illegible] and being familiar with [illegible] of Orton and Cox pronounced [illegible] [illegible]
